

What are some strategies to become more aware of our biases while taking into consideration the realities of time and resources?

How do we recognise bias to begin with?

